Testimonials

Before I started my coaching sessions I felt disconnected and stressed. I didn't realize I was driving myself so hard and even though I was a successful woman I felt like I was underwater. After going through a huge transformation I can breathe again and really feel like I'm living my life. I never could have imagined how good life could be! C.M.

I am very impressed with your knowledge. I've been telling my friends, "Just call Angela and tell her what you want to change in your life - she'll know how to work with you. Now I feel more confident and enjoy my life more. I'm so glad I made the decision to start coaching! M.E.

About Angela Wilkinson

Known as "The Goddess Next Door," Angela Wilkinson helps women live successful, inspired lives by reconnecting with their innate female power. Her own personal growth taught Angela that every woman is born to be a goddess in her own right. Angela explains, "We might have long periods of living where we feel separated from our intrinsic female essence, but our ability to live an inspired, powerful life never leaves us. It simply waits for us to reconnect with it and start thriving."

In our male-dominated culture, it's common for women to believe they must direct their life primarily with their masculine energy—that part of us that drives, pushes, analyzes and tries to control the uncontrollable—but women are infinitely stronger when they direct their life with their feminine energy.

Angela teaches her clients to lead from their feminine essence—that part of us that is receptive, nurturing, intuitive and grounding—so they can achieve their goals more readily and create a triumphant, balanced life full of love, happiness and creativity.

For the past seven years, Angela has been helping women turn spiritual, physical and emotional challenges into positive life transformations by teaching proven strategies for change. As her clients work toward their goals, Angela is a steadfast, empathetic, professionally trained ally—a kind confidante and champion during hard times and successes alike.

Angela's extraordinary ability to put others at ease makes her very easy to confide in. Her generosity of spirit and sense of playfulness are a balm for clients in crisis. Her judicious guidance is at once an anchor and a compass for women on the heroine's quest for inner peace, success, fulfillment and joy.

In addition to private coaching, Angela writes and lectures about how to tap into the power of being a woman and use it to create the life every goddess deserves.
